Re: AECOM Technology Corporation and its subsidiaries.
Disclosure of Corporate Ownership.

Dear Mr. Tantillo:

Our company, AECOM Technology Corporation, provides engineering and architectural consulting services to the City through its operating subsidiaries. These subsidiaries include AECOM Technical Services, Inc. (our main operating brand in North America), AECOM Services of Illinois, Inc. and the other entities listed in the attached PDF.

We are complying with the City economic disclosure requirements whenever we sign a new contract or contract amendment. The Economic Disclosure Statement (EDS) compels us to disclose all owners holding more than 7.5% interest in the applicant.

Merrill Lynch is holding 9.93% of our common stock. They are serving as the trustee for the AECOM's 401K plan. They are a directed trustee, though, with no discretion and no legal ownership (not beneficial ownership) of AECOM. Merrill Lynch cannot vote, tender, or exchange the AECOM stock. They do not share in the pecuniary gain or loss of AECOM or the AECOM's stock.

We feel Merrill Lynch should not be treated as an "Owner," in the meaning prescribed by the EDS terms. As directed by the City Procurement Department, we are contacting you to seek a confirmation that we do not need to disclose Merrill Lynch as our "owner" in our EDS submittals and other dealings with the City.

Attached please find a letter, signed by an authorized Merrill Lynch's representative, which is intended to convey the same petition. Please kindly respond to this message stating your position in this matter.

Respectfully,

Re: AECOM Technology Corporation /Economic Disclosure Statement

Dear Mr. Glavin:

Mr. Wojciech Kowalczyk, Regional Manager of Contracts with AECOM Technology Corporation, forwarded to us a form entitled "City of Chicago Economic Disclosure Statement and Affidavit." Mr. Kowalczyk was advised by the City of Chicago that we needed to complete the form. We believe there is a misunderstanding as to the nature of our role with AECOM and feel, once our role is explained, you will concur with us that our completion of the form is unnecessary.

AECOM sponsors the AECOM Technology Corporation Retirement and Savings Plan and the AECOM Technology Corporation Contract Employee 401(k) Plan, which are tax-qualified defined contribution plans. As such, federal law requires that plan participant assets of these plans be held in a trust. Recently, Bank of America, N.A. (BANA) became the successor trustee to these plans. A portion of the participants' account balances in these plans are held in AECOM employer securities. The percentage of outstanding shares held by the plans in trust is approximately 9.93 %. These securities in the plan trusts are registered to Bank of America, NA as trustee f/b/o the respective plan. BANA is the record owner of the securities, as required by law, however, the plans are the beneficial owners.

Pursuant to the terms of our trust agreement, BANA is a non-discretionary trustee and is directed in all matters by the named fiduciaries of the plan, which are individuals at AECOM. We have no discretion to buy AECOM securities for the trust or to sell AECOM securities from the trust. All voting, tender or exchange of AECOM shares held in trust is passed through to plan participants, as required by law. BANA has no discretion to vote, tender or exchange these shares on its own volition. Importantly, all gain or loss on the shares held in trust by BANA inure to the plan participant, nothing inures to BANA. Thus, the BANA does not benefit from the contracts or business relationships AECOM enters into.

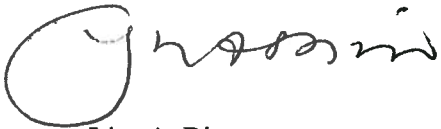

For these reasons, we request that the City of Chicago not require Bank of America to complete the Economic Disclosure Statement as we are neither a beneficial holder of any direct or indirect interest of AECOM, nor do we possess any right of control of AECOM. We understand that the predecessor trustee of these AECOM plans was also excused from filing this Statement and affidavit.

We further submit that it would be extremely difficult to gather the data required by the Economic Disclosure Statement, especially since Bank of America is such a large nation-wide entity. For instance, as requested in Section III, whether Bank of America has had a "business relationship" with any City elected official, would be nearly impossible to answer for the entire organization. More importantly, we feel there is little benefit to gathering the information to complete the form, given that BANA does not have any legal control over AECOM by virtue of being trustee for their retirement plans.

For these reasons, we ask that you not require Bank of America to submit the Economic Disclosure Statement.

Please let us know if you need any further information.

Very truly yours,
